

NOTICE OF PRIVACY PRACTICES

THIS NOTICE DESCRIBES HOW MEDICAL INFORMATION ABOUT YOU MAY BE USED AND DISCLOSED AND HOW YOU CAN GET ACCESS TO THIS INFORMATION. PLEASE REVIEW IT CAREFULLY.

Explanation of Form. Advanced Recovery Concepts, LLC (the "Practice") handles personal health information ("PHI") about you, and how that information is handled is regulated by law. To comply with the law, the Practice asks you to acknowledge receiving this notice in writing.

Types of Uses and Disclosures. PHI about you may be used or disclosed by the Practice for treatment, payment, and health care operations without your authorization. Treatment includes consultation, diagnosis, provision of care, and referrals. Payment includes all those things necessary for billing and collection, such as claims processing. Health care operations include things the Practice does to assess the quality of care, train staff, and manage the Practice's business. Some examples of these disclosures are below.

Example of Treatment Disclosure. The Practice may disclose PHI about you to a medical specialist, a hospital or other providers to help them diagnose and treat an injury or illness. The Practice may also use your PHI to send you (via telephone, email, text or other messaging services) important reminders about upcoming appointments, refills, and other aspects related to your care and treatment.

Example of Payment Disclosure. The Practice may disclose your PHI when your insurance company requires the information before paying for your health care services.

Example of Health Care Operations Use. The Practice may use your PHI when it hires new staff whose training requires information about the medical needs of our residents.

Other Uses and Disclosures. The Practice may also use or disclose your PHI in the following situations without your authorization. These situations include:

As Required By Law. The Practice may use or disclose your PHI to the extent that the use or disclosure is required by law. The use or disclosure will be made in compliance with the law and will be limited to the relevant requirements of the law.

Public Health and Health Oversight. The Practice may disclose PHI for public health activities and purposes to a public health authority that is permitted by law to collect or receive the PHI. The disclosure will be made for the purpose of controlling disease, injury or disability. The Practice may also disclose PHI, if directed by the public health authority, to another government agency that is collaborating with the public health authority. The Practice may also disclose PHI to a health oversight agency for activities authorized by law, such as audits, investigations, and inspections. Oversight agencies seeking this information include government agencies that oversee the health care system, government benefit programs, other government regulatory programs and civil rights laws.

Communicable Diseases. The Practice may disclose your protected health information, if authorized by law, to a person who may have been exposed to a communicable disease or may otherwise be at risk of contracting or spreading the disease or condition.

Abuse or Neglect. The Practice may disclose your PHI to a public health authority that is authorized by law to receive reports of child and other types of abuse or neglect. In addition, the Practice may disclose PHI if the Practice believes that you have been a victim of abuse, neglect or domestic violence to the governmental entity or agency authorized to receive such PHI. In this case, the disclosure will be made consistent with applicable law.

Food and Drug Administration. The Practice may disclose your PHI to a person or company required by the Food and Drug Administration to report adverse events, product defects or problems, biologic product deviations, track products; to enable product recalls; to make repairs or replacements, or to conduct post marketing surveillance, as required.

Legal Proceedings. The Practice may disclose PHI in the course of any judicial or administrative proceeding, in response to an order of a court or administrative tribunal (to the extent such disclosure is expressly authorized), in certain conditions in response to a subpoena, discovery request or other lawful process.

Law Enforcement. The Practice may also disclose PHI, so long as applicable legal requirements are met, for law enforcement purposes. These law enforcement purposes include (1) legal processes and otherwise required by law, (2) limited information requests for identification and location purposes, (3) pertaining to victims of a crime, (4) suspicion that death has occurred as a result of criminal conduct, (5) in the event that a crime occurs on the premises of the Practice, and (6) medical emergency not on the premises and it is likely that a crime has occurred.

Coroners, Funeral Directors, and Organ Donation. The Practice may disclose PHI to a coroner or medical examiner for identification purposes, determining cause of death or for the coroner or medical examiner to perform other duties authorized by law. The Practice may also disclose PHI to a funeral director, as authorized by law, in order to permit the funeral director to carry out his duties. The Practice may disclose such PHI in reasonable anticipation of death. PHI may be used and disclosed for cadaveric organ, eye or tissue donation purposes.

Research. The Practice may disclose your PHI to researchers when the research has been approved by an institutional review board that has reviewed the research proposal and established protocols to ensure the privacy of your protected health information.

Criminal Activity. Consistent with applicable federal and state laws, the Practice may disclose your PHI if the Practice believes that the use or disclosure is necessary to prevent or lessen a serious and imminent threat to the health or safety of a person or the public. The Practice may also disclose PHI if it is necessary for law enforcement authorities to identify or apprehend an individual.

Military Activity and National Security. When the appropriate conditions apply, the Practice may use or disclose PHI of individuals who are Armed Forces personnel (1) for activities deemed necessary by appropriate military command authorities; (2) for the purpose of a determination by the Department of Veterans Affairs of eligibility for benefits, or (3) to foreign military authority if you are a member of that foreign military services. The Practice may also disclose PHI to authorized federal officials for conducting national security and intelligence activities, including for the provision of protective services to the President or others legally authorized.

Workers' Compensation. PHI may be disclosed by the Practice as authorized to comply with workers' compensation laws and other similar legally-established programs.

Inmates. The Practice may use or disclose PHI if you are an inmate of a correctional facility and your physician created or received your PHI in the course of providing care to you.

Required Uses and Disclosures. Under the law, the Practice must make disclosures to you and when required by the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services to investigate or determine compliance with the law. Also, the Practice may make any other disclosures required by law.

Others Involved in Your Healthcare. Unless you object, the Practice may disclose to a member of your family, a relative, a close friend or any other person you identify, your PHI that directly relates to that person's involvement in your health care. If you are unable to agree or object to such a disclosure, the Practice may disclose such PHI as necessary if the Practice determines that it is in your best interest based on its professional judgment. The Practice may use or disclose PHI to notify or assist in notifying a family member, personal representative or any other person that is responsible for your care of your location, general condition or death. Finally, the Practice may use or disclose your PHI to an authorized entity to assist in disaster relief efforts and to coordinate uses and disclosures to family or other individuals involved in your health care.

Other Uses and Disclosures. Disclosure of your PHI or its use for any purposes other than those listed above requires your specific written authorization. If you change your mind after authorizing a use or disclosure of your PHI, you may submit a written revocation of the authorization. However, your decision to revoke the authorization will not affect or undo any use or disclosure of PHI that occurred before you notified the Practice of your decision to revoke your authorization. Without your authorization, the Practice is expressly prohibited to use or disclose your PHI for marketing purposes when financial remuneration is involved. The Practice may not sell your PHI without your authorization. The Practice may not disclose most psychotherapy notes without your authorization. The Practice maintains a video surveillance system throughout the common areas and hallways of its locations. The Practice may use video and other images captured by the surveillance system for the purposes of general premises security and safety. Signage will be posted where video surveillance is in use.

Restrictions. You have the right to request restrictions on the use and disclosure of your PHI; however, we are not required to agree to your requests. The Practice will only be bound by the restrictions if the Practice notifies you in writing that it agrees with them. The Practice will always agree to a request to restrict a release of PHI to an insurance provider if you pay the bill out of pocket and in full.

Confidentiality. You have the right to have the Practice use only confidential means of communicating with you about PHI. This means you may have PHI delivered to you at a certain place, or in a manner that keeps your PHI confidential. Such request must be in writing, signed and dated.

Access, Amendment and Accounting. You may generally inspect or copy your PHI that the Practice maintains. Your request will be reviewed and will generally be approved unless there are legal or medical reasons to deny the request. As permitted by federal regulation, the Practice requires that all requests regarding your PHI be submitted in writing. Any requested copies will be made at a reasonable cost to you (as permitted by the law), which is payable prior to the pickup or delivery. You have the right to have the Practice amend your PHI it maintains. The Practice may refuse to amend PHI that is accurate, that was created by someone else, or is not disclosable to you. You have the right to see a list of disclosures of PHI about you by the Practice, made within a period of time up to 6 years prior to the date of your request, excluding certain disclosures, such as those made for treatment, payment, or health care operations.
